ALCAZAR BLAST KILLS HUNDREDS IN SPANISH WAR

Rebel Men, Women, Children Are Reported Dead as Loyalists Dynamite

FINAL WARNING DEFIED

Americans Given Last Chance to Flee Civil War Scene

TOLEDO, Spain, Sept. 18. —(UP)—A majority of the more than 1,200 rebel men, women and children besieged in the Alcazar were believed to have been killed today when Loyalist dynamited the ancient fortress.

The palace-fortress, which has been mined by tunnels bored through the rock, was dynamited at 6:15 a. m. today.

The west wall was demolished by the explosion.

Most of the walls already had been reduced to ruins by artillery fire and air bombs.

The besieged rebels, who previously had prepared barricades in case the mines were set off, began battling the loyalists in hand-to-hand fighting.

MADRID, Sept. 18. —(UP)—More than 50 American citizens are expected to entrain tonight for Alicante, on the east coast, to embark in the cruiser Quincy. This will be probably the final evacuation of Americans from Madrid.

The ministry of interior, in charge of all policing, in a decree today ordered that all foreigners submit their passports to police within seven days for examination and approval. In event that the authorities "consider the stay of any foreigner in Spain inconvenient, he will be duly notified to leave the country," the decree said.

There are but 174 Americans registered at the embassy here.

Forty-seven American citizens are living at the Embassy and 127 elsewhere in the capital. Of these 26 from the United States, one from Puerto Rico and 20 from the Philippines are at the embassy, and 83 from the United States, 25 from Puerto Rico and 20 from the Philippines are living outside.

Since the civil war 268 Americans have been evacuated.

Dargusch Advises Tax Reform Law in State

COLUMBUS, Sept. 18.—(UP)—State constitutional amendments which would "radically reform the tax system of Ohio" were proposed today by Carlton S. Dargusch, vice chairman of the State Tax Commission. Dargusch recommended:

1. That all tax levies for debt requirements be placed outside the 10-mill limitation.
2. That no bond issues, except to meet emergencies, be permitted without a vote of the people of the issuing subdivision.

COUNTIAN HURT BY HIT-SKIPPER

Amos Wheeler of Ashville Injured Seriously

Amos Wheeler, 47, Ashville corn cutter, is in a serious condition in Berger hospital suffering from a fractured skull, possible internal injuries and numerous cuts and bruises as the result of being struck by a hit-skip motorist on Route 23, about 5:30 a. m. Friday.

Mr. Wheeler was enroute to the farm of Bruce Young, just north of South Bloomfield, to begin his day's work when he was struck. He was walking on the east side of the highway. The accident occurred along Mr. Young's farm.

David Gilleswater, a corn cutter, also of Ashville, was walking on the highway about one-fourth of a mile back of Mr. Wheeler. He told Sheriff Charles Radcliff he saw the accident but was unable to give a description of the car. A broken headlight lens was the only clue the sheriff's department obtained.

Mr. Gilleswater notified Youngs about the accident. Schlegel's ambulance removed Wheeler to Berger hospital where he is under treatment of Dr. E. L. Montgomery.

Sheriff Radcliff said it was 66 feet from where Wheeler dropped his dinner pail to the point where he was found after the accident. Both of the man's shoes were torn from his feet when he was struck.

Gale Ends Career of Explorer

THIRTY YEARS of polar exploration ended in tragedy for Dr. Jean Baptiste Charcot, veteran adventurer, when a 70-mile gale sent his ship to the bottom of the sea off the coast of Reykjavik, Iceland, with Charcot and a crew of 32 on board. A lone survivor, picked up by fisherman, told a dramatic story of the voyage that ended on the rocks a short distance from a friendly harbor. The bodies of Dr. Charcot and 28 others, all wearing life preservers, were recovered by searching vessels. Sixty-nine years old, Dr. Charcot had been making yearly trips to the Arctic and Antarctic since 1903 when he gave up a promising medical career in Paris to begin exploration. A picture of the famous ship, Four-quais Pas (Why Not) and the noted explorer are shown above.

One of the most unusual operations in medical history was performed here today when a needle was removed from the heart of a two-year-old boy. Doctors believe that he will live.

The needle was thrust into his heart by accident when his mother, having it in her apron, lifted him consolingly after a fall.

Hearing his cries, she thought a rib had been broken. The child was placed under an x-ray which revealed that the needle was moving with each heart beat.

GALE HITS NORFOLK; STREETS INUNDATED

Residents of Lowlands Flee from Coast to Higher Ground as Terrific Storm Sweeps into Mainland from Ocean

VACATIONERS SEEK HOTEL REFUGE

U. S. Cutters Trying to Find Craft Afters SOS Signal is Flashed Early in Day

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 18.—(UP)—The center of a tropical hurricane battering the Virginia coast from Cape Hatteras to Norfolk, headed inland toward Cape Henry, today with a velocity estimated at 80 miles an hour.

At least three vessels caught in the hurricane were in distress. The coast guard lightship, Chesapeake, was torn loose from its anchor near Cape Charles and drifted helplessly with 15 men aboard.

No word had been received from the S. S. El Almirante with 32 men aboard since she radioed urgently for assistance late yesterday. The coal barge Hercules was torn loose from the tug Sampson in mountainous seas near Cape Henry.

Forewarned by coast guardsmen, Red Cross workers and others, most of the residents of the lowlands along the coast were believed to have reached higher grounds. Several communication lines, however made a check of many, small towns impossible.

Long Coastline Lashed
A gale reaching 60 miles an hour at times lashed the coast last night and early today from Cape Hatteras north to Cape Henry, but the center of the storm still was at sea.

The coast guard cutter Mendota was dispatched from Cape Charles to the aid of the Chesapeake after the lightship radioed at 7:05 a. m.: "SOS. Please help."

The wind, blowing at 54 miles an hour and rising fast, shifted from the northeast to the west, causing coast guardsmen to fear the lightship might be driven helplessly out to sea.

The coast guard cutter Moboc was attempting to reach the Al Almirante, which radioed it was at the mercy of winds with a broken flange on a throttle valve. Loss of steam for headway endangered the craft.

The El Almirante was New York bound from New Orleans. The vessel, under command of Capt. Richard Lange, of Jersey City, N. J., is of 5,216 tons.

The Mendota earlier had been searching for the coal barge and apparently was diverted from that mission to the rescue of the Chesapeake. The Hercules was reported in no immediate danger.

No Loss of Life
The coast guard station at Cape Hatteras said preliminary and partial check of that region revealed no loss of life. Winds were diminishing and the barometer there was rising steadily, indicating the center of the storm had passed to the northwest.

The naval communications station at Cape Hatteras was flooded. Several small boats along the coast were smashed, but the fisherman already had fled to shelter.

Coast guardsmen removed five women and five children from Dam Neck Mills, near here, to higher ground. Water pounded up by the wind was two to three feet deep in sections of Norfolk.

The wind ripped the roof from a house across the street from the coast guard station, demolished.

COUNTY MAY NOT HAVE HUSKING TEST THIS YEAR

Pickaway county may not have a corn husking contest this year. F. K. Blair, county extension agent, announced Friday no entries have been filed and very little interest had been shown by farmers in an event for this year. He blamed the lack of interest on the condition of Pickaway county corn.

"Unless I receive requests to arrange a contest and sufficient entries no plans will be made," Mr. Blair said.

MUSGRAVE HARBOR, N. F., Sept. 18.—(UP)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker succeeded today in negotiating an armistice between Richard Merrill and Harry Richman, estranged trans-Atlantic fliers, and they agreed to fly to New York together in their repaired monoplane, The Lady Peace. They hoped to start today.

Merrill, who charged that Richman's action in dumping 500 gallons of gasoline at sea, prevented them from flying non-stop to New York from England, had declared he would not fly "in the same ship" with the co-pilot.

But Rickenbacker, Eastern Airline's executive and Merrill's superior, induced Merrill to submerge his quarrel for the present.

Mechanics, who flew to Newfoundland with Rickenbacker, said the engine was undamaged by The Lady Peace's forced landing in a bog near here. The engine was tried out yesterday and found to be working excellently.

The Lady Peace will take off from a beach runway 500 yards long for Harbor Grace, where additional fuel will be taken aboard for the flight to New York. The plane has been dragged from the bog and is being drawn along by an improvised road behind the beach.

Refugees Fill Churches and Schools of District

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Sept. 15—(UP)—The Concho river flood abated today, leaving 1,500 homeless, at least one dead, and many missing. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

It was feared relief from overflowing rivers swollen by torrential rains, might be only temporary. It was raining here, and reports upstream on both the North and South Concho branches told of more rains.

A person seen clinging to a treetop in the middle of the raging river was gone when rescue boats arrived.

A boy, Ralph Stevens, 6, drowned near Leon in the waters of Copperas creek.

Early today the receding water had left the business district and a large part of the residential area of San Angelo. Wreckage of more than 300 homes was strewn about streets.

Many Precarious
Persons fleeing from the flood on the north branch of the Concho river reported nine others were hanging in precarious perches. It was feared some may have become exhausted and fallen into the stream. A rescue motorboat was being outfitted.

Precautions had been taken here against looting, and none was reported. A threat of epidemic was considered past. The city water supply was crippled, authorities said, but service would be resumed quickly.

About half the main business district of this city of 30,000 was inundated at the height of the flood late yesterday.

More than 1,500 persons wandered back to the neighborhoods where their homes had been. Few boats were available to reach for persons in isolated areas.

Churches and schools were filled with refugees. Food was being distributed from warehouses.

The branches of the Concho, fed by many streams, met a little below the city. Rainfall in San Angelo totaled 20 inches in four days. At Water Valley, 25 miles upstream, 30 inches of rain was estimated.

A baby was born at a hospital while water stood 10 feet deep in the basement of the building.

Water in Hotels
Before the flood started receding last night, water stood 11 feet deep in downtown hotels and theaters and fire stations.

The San Angelo power plant, located near the confluence of the rivers, was under water, but connections were made with other towns to supply the city with power.

Communications failed at the height of the flood.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Gene Autry, singing star, becomes involved in a new and exciting story treatment in his latest starring picture—"Oh, Susanna!" which opens tonight at the Cliftona theatre.

Instead of rescuing fair heroines and galloping to the aid of others, Autry spends most of the film footage trying to prove that he is not a killer and robber with a "Dead or Alive" price on his head.

Nevertheless his talents for song and music have full sway when he arrives incognito at an old friend's dude ranch. He aids his friend's daughter in entertaining cash customers while ferreting out the killer.

Smiley Burnette and Earl Hodgins, wandering troubadours, inject humor into the fast moving musical drama.

Of special interest to film goers are the Light Crust Doughboys a "six piece fiddler band," who make their film debut in "Oh, Susanna." The men discovered singing on the radio in the Southwest, play any kind of instrument and sing in most any key the situation demands.

Frances Grant already known for her work opposite Gene Autry in "Red River Valley," is fascinating as the bereaved daughter of the dude rancher who strives to entertain her guests in spite of the cloud of tragedy that hangs over the place.

Others in the cast include Boothe Howard, the villain, Roger Gray, Frankie Marvin, Clara Kimball.

AT THE GRAND

The combined genius of Darryl F. Zanuck, producer, and Jack London, author, which resulted in the hit, "Call of the Wild," again is responsible for an outstanding film triumph in "White Fang," now at the Grand theatre.

Michael Whalen and Jean Muir head the cast of this Twentieth Century production which also features Slim Summerville, Charles Winninger, the original "Cap'n Henry" of radio fame, John Carradine, Jane Darwell and Thomas Beck.

More than 700 cities in the 15 states where daylight saving is optional adopted it for the summer. Several cities in the United States and Canada adopted the time for a different period than the April 26 to Sept. 27 period suggested by the Merchants' Association of New York.

Optional in Empire State
In the optional states, New York leads in the number of cities observing daylight time with 320. New Jersey is second with 118 and Pennsylvania is third with 93. Other states are Maine 59, Connecticut 33, New Hampshire 21, Illinois 46 (with 39 others observing Eastern Standard Time the year round), Indiana 18, Georgia 3, Idaho 3, Vermont 3, and Delaware 11.

Business houses in Minneapolis unofficially observe Daylight time. Ohio was placed officially on Eastern Standard Time in 1927.

Chicago Defies I. C. C.
Chicago led 39 other Illinois towns and cities in observance of Eastern Standard Time this year, and although the Interstate Commerce Commission refused to approve it, the city plans to remain on that time throughout the year. Forty-six other cities adopted the April 26 to Sept. 27 Daylight time, while eight other cities set shorter periods for observance.

Great Britain, Northern Ireland, France, Portugal and Belgium go off Daylight Saving Time Oct. 4, and the Netherlands Oct. 3. In South America, Argentina observes Daylight time for six months, ending Nov. 30.

SLEUTH CHARGED WITH SHOOTING BY OHIO WOMAN

CINCINNATI, Sept. 18 — (UP)—Mrs. June Roebuck Montgomery, 34, wounded critically in the hotel room of Almon J. Bogardus, chief state liquor law enforcement agent here, today by a thread in a hospital here today.

Physicians said Mrs. Montgomery had been given three blood transfusions and that a fourth might be given in an effort to save her life.

In a statement to police, which she was barely able to sign as she lay semi-conscious on her hospital bed, she accused Bogardus of shooting her "because he was jealous." Earlier she had told officers she shot herself.

Bogardus said Mrs. Montgomery came to his room early yesterday and shot herself with a pistol she took from his dresser drawer while he was preparing to shave. He said she had served him as an informer in connection with his liquor enforcement activities.

COUGHLIN AIDE
ASKS RECOUNT
OF STATE VOTE

Ward Wires Gov. Fitzgerald to Prevent Ballots
From Destruction

NEW DEAL MAN IN LEAD

34 Precincts Unreported in Hot Campaign

DETROIT, Sept. 18—(UP)—Louis B. Ward, Washington representative of Father Charles E. Coughlin, today announced he would demand a recount in the Michigan primary vote for the Democratic senatorial nomination.

With 34 precincts still unreported, Ward was trailing Prentiss M. Brown, New Deal Democrat, for the nomination by 3950 votes.

Ward's surprisingly close race for the nomination marked the greatest effort yet made by Coughlin to place a representative of his National Union for Social Justice in high office.

In a telegram to Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald, Ward said he would file a petition for a recount of the vote in all precincts and warned against possible destruction of ballots before the recount was made.

"It has been the history of all machine controlled politics in this country," he said, "that ballots often unhappily become destroyed before the recount can be had."

"As chief executive . . . I respectfully request you publicly and forcefully to call to the attention to all election inspectors, township and city clerks the mandatory provisions respecting the preservation of the ballots," he told the governor.

"I sincerely believe that the recount being demanded for this office will be a valuable contribution to the integrity of the ballot and the preservation of our primary system."

YES, THIS FOOD ENDS
YOUR CONSTIPATION

Look out for those half-sick days, when you feel listless, headachy, out-of-sorts. Your trouble may be constipation. The real cause of common constipation is too little "bulk" in meals. Your system misses its regular exercise.

Get this needed "bulk" in a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Within the body, its "bulk" absorbs moisture, forms a soft mass, gently sponges out the system.

Why keep on feeling bad when you can feel good? Millions of people use ALL-BRAN. Tests prove it's safe and effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed. Try it a week. If not satisfactory, your money will be refunded by the Kellogg Company.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Serve as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into recipes. Remember, ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B and iron.

Certainly you'd rather eat a food than take pills and drugs. Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

One member is selected from each class by fellow class members. The senior class member automatically becomes president.

This organization was started last year for the purpose of caring for the athletic fund and planning all athletic activities including the athletic carnival held in October. The annual chicken dinner held in November, the athletic play and all sports events.

The organization has proven its worth in the year it has been in operation. All bills have been paid and all events attracted larger crowds than in any previous year.

VETERANS BEGIN TO GATHER FOR LEGION MEETING

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18—(UP)—American Legionnaires and their affiliates, concerned with keeping international peace in a troubled time, were bivouacking in Cleveland today for the opening on Sunday of a national convention expected to be four times bigger than any before.

A crowd of 250,000 — a fourth of Cleveland's own population — was expected to see drafted a platform pledged to depopulation of war and denunciation of Communist, Nazi and Fascist forays into the American scene.

Leading the advance guard of Legion hordes into the nation's biggest assemblage was Ray Murphy of Ida Grove, Ia., national commander.

Murphy was jubilant over the fact that on the eve of the 18th annual gathering only one plank of the Legion's three-point program remained to be made law.

Those calling for an adequate national defense and for strict American neutrality now are being carried to fulfillment through congressional enactment. The third calls for taking the profit out of war.

Convening at the same time will be members of the Legion Auxiliary — wives of Legionnaires — the Forty and Eight (playground of the Legion) and Eight and Forty, its wives. President of the Auxiliary is Mrs. Melville Muckleston of Chicago.

In the manner of a father, Murphy has issued a dictum this year against "horse play" by conventioners. The stout, baldish Iowan has ready a mimeographed letter for every arriving Legionnaire asking he "be his age."

OPEN LETTERS

TO EDUCATORS

TEACHERS: When public schools opened Monday some of you started with an ambition to do great things; and some of you were just starting the "same old grind" for another year. To the first group may I suggest that you will be disillusioned unless you start with a realization that the pupils will not be so anxious to learn as you will be to help them? And to the other group may I suggest that the "same old grind" is just that because you make it so? Teaching is not fun. It is a hard job, but it seems to the layman that the first prerequisite is to instill a desire to learn, and that this in most cases is not a hopeless task. We hear a lot about regimentation, but regardless of any restrictions placed on you, each teacher is held responsible by parents for the pupils under his or her guidance. And perhaps a study of the word "guidance" is the secret to instilling the desire to learn. "Guidance" means "to guide". A guide is one who leads or directs another in his way or course, as in a strange land, or one who exhibits points of interest to strangers. How many teachers use that approach? Do you require that the pupils learn because your job depends on it; or do you treat the pupil as you would a foreigner in whom you were interested? To those of you with ambitions, may I suggest that you exhibit points of interest if you expect the pupils to learn willingly? To those of you starting the "same old grind" may I suggest that the year's studies are so familiar to you that perhaps you forget that it is all a "strange land" to pupils, and that points of interest must be exhibited? If you search and find those points of interest, will you not be finding a new interest in your job, as well as doing a much better job of guiding? That part of the work is entirely up to you. For textbooks do not, or cannot draw red rings about points of interest, or show the pupil to what point of interest the dreary, monotonous path is leading.

TO CITIZENS

DEAR FRIENDS: On several occasions the Circuiteer has warned children and their parents about the dangers of riding bicycles after dark on the city streets or highways without proper lights. Apparently a serious accident will be necessary before they take heed. Every evening groups of boys and girls parade up and down streets in this city disregarding all traffic rules and inviting injury. On Tuesday evening of this week I noticed a group of eight children zig-zagging with their bicycles on Watt street playing some sort of a game. Five other children were riding their "bikes" back and forth in front of the post-office. A third group, gathered on Court street near Watt, appeared to be playing a game of bicycle tag. Three of them would through the Court street traffic and crossed the street on the red light. Many children have new bicycles this year, and they are entitled to have their fun, but parents should give them some sound warnings or warnings. Motorists usually give bicycle riders more than their share of space in the daytime. It is a different proposition after dark when drivers face the glaring headlights of approaching cars. Then it is difficult to see a bicycle when it is not equipped with a light. If parents refuse to stop this after night riding it is then time for the police to take some action.

TO SHOW DIRECTORS

GENTLEMEN: I believe you are making a mistake by holding the saddle horse show on the football field at the high school building. That location is out of the Pumpkin Show district, and very few persons will walk that distance to see the exhibition. It would be far more convenient for visitors if both the saddle and draft horse shows were held on the Pickaway Dairy association's lot on W. Main street. I will admit this lot is out of the Show district also, but not so far away from the center of town as the football field. The horse show is one of the fine features of the Pumpkin Show. Why put it so far away from the Show few persons can enjoy it? Elderly persons would not walk that far and few would move their cars from parking places to make a trip to the south end of the city just for the exhibition. It looks foolish to light and equip two lots for the same type of show.

TO AUTO DRIVERS

DEAR FOLK: Before Oct. 1 you must obtain a driver's license, and it is useless to put it off until the last minute. There is ample time between now and the first of the month to obtain your license and free yourself from the last-minute jam that will probably occur. The local office expects to issue about 6,500 licenses before the deadline, so obtain your license as soon as possible. There will be no time extension.

TO BOARD OF EDUCATION

MEMBERS: The success of the Darby township board in obtaining a federal grant for a school addition should spur you to new efforts to provide an annex to the high school. Your project was submitted several months ago, after plans and specifications were drafted, but nothing has been done toward actual work since the bond issue was voted by the residents of the city. In obtaining a project as big as the one you are seeking it is necessary that the persons back of the work do their part. I earnestly urge you to strive toward approval for the project.

TO D. A. R. MEMBERS

NEIGHBORS: The action your organization took this week in condemning Communistic radio broadcasts recalls to mind that your organization is founded and operated on American ideals. I hope, and so do hundreds of others, that your protests against a series of Sunday afternoon broadcasts of the party bear fruit.

World At A Glance

—By— Charles P. Stewart

WHILE ENGLAND frowns on German and Italian sympathies for the Spanish rebels, France frowns on England.

We read in the forthright "The Living Age" (which gathers opinions all over the world):

"While most journals regard the Italian government as the principal backer of the Spanish rebellion, the French newspaper L'Univers, claims that the British financial oligarchy played a more powerful role in the plot, and notes that the City (London's 'Wall Street') received the news of the outbreak from Morocco 'with no surprise and much satisfaction.'"

"British capital has heavy interests in Spain. British investors hold blocks of stock in railroads, mines, power plants and shipyards. Sir Basil Zanghaff and Vickers, Limited, own nearly one-third of the capital of the Sociedad Espanola de Construcción Naval. British firms entirely dominate such companies as the Sevilla Waterworks company, Limited, the Compania General Canaria de Comestibles, the Tharsis Sulphur Copper Mines, Limited, and the famous Rio Tinto Copper Mines, Limited, one of the largest copper mines in the world. Also Sir Henri Deterding (head of the British-owned Dutch Shell oil) has no more forgotten his rough treatment at the hands of the Spanish Oil Monopoly than he has the confiscation of his holdings in Russia. These great interests fear that as the Spanish government moves further Left they will lose the virtual extra-territorial rights which they have enjoyed for many years.

"Finally, the fact that British business exerts strong control over Portugal suggests that the 'City' was by no means indifferent to the aid which the rebels obtained from this quarter.

"In this the financial powers appear to diverge sharply from the policy of the foreign office, which takes a long-range Imperial view. Several months ago The Living Age pointed out that the British had invested 11 million pounds ($55 million dollars) in the fortification of the Balearic Islands. In case of war between Italy and Britain, these islands might successfully challenge Mussolini's power in the Mediterranean, assist in keeping the route to India clear and block Italy's way to the Atlantic. Triumph of the Fascist rebels, with their well-known connections with Italy, might prove to be a defeat for Britain. Again, as in the case of the Abyssinian war and the Rhineland reoccupation, a division of attitudes in Britain's governing class prevents her from taking decisive action one way or the other."

PORTUGAL. It must be remembered that

Portugal is largely under British domination. At least, such has been the view of other nations. And Portugal has a dictator, who forced Loyalist refugees back across the lines into the part of Spain captured by the rebels. The rebels promptly put the men to death.

This action on the part of Portugal was in contravention to international law.

POLAND

Poland is looked upon by some as the next nation to "blow up." Its rigid rule merely has intensified the move to the two extremes—fascism and communism. Poland, like Spain, is desperately poor. That is, so far as the average man is concerned. Poland, however, is leaning toward France, its old ally, at the moment.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Czechoslovakia, also, is disturbed for a different reason. It is a nation with a good rule, a democratic rule—but with rich resources. The Nazi-Fascist nations therefore desire to gobble it up. Hitler's recent threats against the Soviet Union are said to be excuses for forcing a Nazi-Fascist regime, under German domination, on Czechoslovakia. Incidentally, Hungary and Poland desire slices of this republic.

CHAPTER 52

GAY HAD felt strangely heavy-hearted all during her round of duties at the club. Thus when she stepped out of the Wilson car into their side-drive, the mournfulness of this November twilight and the tempestuousness of the wind had deepened her mood of depression.

Now, as she stood staring out into the white pall of the garden, as Marian watched her, she felt unspeakably desolate. That had been her real feeling lately, hidden under a cloak of gaiety; a desperate sense of utter loneliness in a great, indifferent world, ever since that stormy, heart-breaking finale with Wayne.

Again the memory of their last unforgettable evening together revived in her mind for the hundredth time, in all its details, its ecstatic sweetness, its agonizing misunderstanding; and the pain in her breast seemed more than she could bear.

"Does a snow storm give you the jitters, too?" Marian's voice recalled Gay to her surroundings.

Gay turned from the window. "I used to adore snow storms when I was younger. Snowball fights, and sleds, and building snowmen and forts with the other kids in the neighborhood. But tonight—"

Marian didn't see the shiver. She was wording her own thoughts. "I missed all that, being a very delicate, shy child. I was alone so much. My father used to drive country roads, day and night in all kinds of weather, visiting sick people. Perhaps that explains why I've always gone around with a gay crowd, played bridge, and danced, and did anything and everything to avoid being alone. I've been so busy trying to compensate for my lonely childhood, that I've been a frightful failure as a wife, for Johnny."

"Johnny seems to think his 'frightful failure' of a wife is perfectly just right."

"At first—and lately." Marian forced Gay's eyes to meet her significant, rather wistful smile. "But there's been a longer string of unhappy years than I like to remember—" She stopped, to clasp her hands tensely and exclaim, with a nervous surge of excitement, "I've a gorgeous idea! I'll get Johnny to drive up north with me this week-end, for a hunting trip. We'll take Naggo—he's such a splendid cook. Johnny has made all his arrangements to run down to New York. You know Tim and Eleanor land, Monday morning."

"But that's our anniversary, and it will please Johnny pink if I suggest celebrating it in the hunting shack. We spent our honeymoon there, but he never could drag me to the place again. Beastly cold, you know. Snow for miles and miles." She shivered in anticipation.

tion, but her mouth was firm. "Johnny loves it up there. He's happy as a schoolboy on a vacation—I've been such a rotten poor sport all these years—" She began to pace rapidly up and down the room, a habit of hers when deeply aroused.

Gay, fearful of excitement for Marian's still none-too-strong heart, found it difficult to quiet her.

"Come up into the woods with us, Gay!" Marian urged. "We could have a marvelous time, really."

But Gay shook her head. "Thanks, dear—if this is an anniversary celebration, you and the doctor wouldn't want me along. Besides, my vacation doesn't begin till next Monday. I've got to have a vacation? I didn't dream I'd get one—at least, until I'd been at the club a year. But Mr. Carberry called me up to the office the other evening, and said I was to have 10 days' vacation with pay, before the holiday rush—"

Eagerly, Marian cut in, "Ten days in the shack would be a perfect rest for you! Nothing to do but enjoy the scenery and fresh air, and eat venison and waffles! Naggo's waffles are something you shouldn't miss!"

"Too sweet, Marian. It's darling of you to want me, but I know Johnny will enjoy having you all to himself. I'll stay right here in Detroit, I guess. If I could go anywhere, I'd love to go to New York. I've never been east," she admitted wistfully.

Marian was lying back in her chair, her feet crossed on the fender. She asked, carelessly: "New York? Why? What would you do there?"

Gay showed her first enthusiasm that evening. "There are so many places I'd love to see! I want to take a bus trip up Fifth avenue, and have lunch at the Brevort, and wander around Greenwich Village, and visit the Hungarian cafes, on Second avenue, where they have gypsy orchestras and—"

Marian's astonished laughter stopped her. "What do you mean, you haven't been to New York?"

"But I haven't, really!"

"Then somebody's been telling you things." Gay admitted honestly, "Yes, Wayne Adams."

"That conceited young man!" Gay's cheeks glowed scarlet, and her eyes sparkled an indignant blue brilliance. "He isn't conceited, Marian. Not a bit! You don't really know him—"

Again Marian broke into teasing laughter. "So that's the way the land lies! I had a hunch when Grace's affair with him smashed—"

"Wayne won't let a woman help him," Gay defended.

"I know the real low-down about that, and all my sympathies are with Wayne," Marian admitted. "I don't want to be hard on Grace, but she made him feel like a fool, trying to force her money on him, and herself in the bargain. Johnny and I have always respected and liked Wayne. I was only teasing you, when I called him conceited. He's extremely good looking, but he's more sensitive than anyone I've ever met."

Gradually, Marian's tact and sympathy wore into Gay's natural reserve. She began to talk, shyly at first, and then with increasing candor.

She told of her first stir of interest in the strikingly handsome, dark-eyed young man who had tried to tip her that night at the Pontchartrain; it seemed like years ago, though it was only last March. She told of the frank desire for wealth and social position which had dominated her, since her high school days—a desire which the dinner Marian and the doctor had given in honor of Wayne, had fanned into a bright flame of determination to make an ambitious marriage.

Gay didn't spare herself. She poured out the truth, unflattering to herself. She admitted her cold resolve to rule love out of her scheme of life. She told of her flirtation with Breck, of the evening at the Goat's Nest, with its unpleasant termination; of the night at Rose Heath with Christine as host, and spoke sketchily of the romantic moment on the bridge with Wayne.

She described the colorful thread of her growing interest in him, that had begun to run through the warp and woof of her existence.

But because of the strong underflow of her unhappiness, she only touched with a light note on some of her encounters with Wayne. His anger when she had chosen Tim to take her home from the pent-house party. The pleasant Sunday drive into Canada, with the gay impromptu supper in his apartment.

But a wave of self-abhorrence swept over her again at the memory of that moment of weakness and temptation, from which she had been saved by Grace Larimore's unexpected appearance in Wayne's living room. She paused, and stared in the fire, her eyes shadowed again with that expression of one reliving painful scenes, wounding memories.

Then, as Marian waited without interrupting, she hurried on through that final quarrel, when she had volunteered to ask Tim, in fulfillment of his offer, to finance Wayne's project.

"And man-like, Wayne perfectly misunderstood about you and Tim, and wouldn't listen to a word of explanation," Marian filled in the gap in her most casual manner.

Gay nodded. She looked white and tired. "He never cared for me, never had any faith in me, or he wouldn't believe such horrible things. So—what does it matter?"

The office of Secretary of Stewardship held by Mrs. Frances Coultrap, of McArthur, has not been filled.

Thirty districts were represented. Officers were Mrs. M. R. Allen and Mrs. Jules Fontaine, of the Columbus district; Mrs. Rena D. Johnson, officer of the Wilmington district and Mrs. McDonald of Jackson, who is conference secretary.

GOODMAN, FISCHER MEET IN SEMI-FINALS OF NATIONAL AMATEUR TOURNEY

WRIGHT, McLEAN TANGLE IN TIEFF FOR HIGH HONOR

Omaha Golfer Holds Edge by Virtue of Splendid Play This Week

PUSHED IN QUARTER-FINAL

International Aspect Added as Scot Threatens

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(UP)—It was Johnny Goodman against Johnny Fischer, and George Coight against Jack McLean, in today's semi-final of the National Amateur golf championship.

Today's playoff on the difficult layout of the Garden City club may bring about an international final, for McLean, Scottish star of the British Walker cup team, was a firm favorite over Voight, 42-year-old standard which won Inwood Smith Goodman, the Omaha sharp-shooter who won the National Open in 1933, and Fischer, former intercollegiate champion from Cincinnati, were rated a toss-up.

Each of the semi-finalists is a Walker Cup player. This is the first time that the round of four has been filled by coppers. Goodman, pre-tourney favorite, looked as likely a finalist today as he did when the unwieldy field of 208 teed off Monday. He has played fine medal golf and, with one exception, all of his matches have been won by coasting margins. The exception came yesterday when he was carried to the 17th green before disposing of Ray Billows, of Poughkeepsie. But even in that close match, Goodman returned a card which showed him only two strokes over par, and Billows is never a push-over.

Zuppke Must Stress Aerials; Team Light

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 18.—(UP)—A stadium full of clever backs and pass receiving ends spells just one thing to Bob Zuppke, so let the Big Ten be warned it faces another barrage of mystifying footballs from his 24th Illinois eleven.

The 1936 Illini must pass in self defense. It will take all the famous genius that devised the razzledazzle, flying trapeze the flea flicker and other bouncing variations to keep the undersized Illinois squad from a quick death in the Western conference.

From the team that won only three games last season went four key figures—Capt. Chuck Galbreath and Arvo Antilla, tackles, Eddie Gryboski, a guard and voted the most valuable player, and Les Lindberg, punting halfback.

Rugged Material Available

Zuppke has chosen to fill these vacancies with sophomores who can turn the Illini into a championship contender. These second year men are the first rugged players Zup has laid his hands on for several years.

Only one sophomore likely will find his way into the veteran backfield, expected to include Wilbur Henry, Lowell Spurgeon, Jewett Cole, Bobby Grieve, Tom Wilson and John Theodore. He is Jay Wardley, Joliet youngster, who is hailed as the greatest forward passing prospect since Jack Beynon.

Wardley will find a half dozen ready targets for his passes. Returning end lettermen include Ken Nelson, Gene Dykstra, and Francis Cantwell, all exceptional receivers. Headed by Capt. El Sayre, 13 lettermen were among a squad of 64 players to report for opening practice Sept. 9.

Sayre Stays at Center Sayre is a fixture at center. Cliff Kuhn will return to guard, and the ends and backs all will be manned by veterans. Loss of Galbreath and Antilla has caused Zuppke the most worry. Neither measured up to the Big 10 tackle physical standard, yet neither was outplayed a single minute during the entire season.

Thus the tackles, where line strength must be concentrated, will be handled by green men. Outstanding candidates include Zuppke's own nephew, Bob Zuppke, Minneapolis; Bob Estergard, Edgin; Harry Lasater, Fairfield; El Barrow, Danville; Al Lundberg, Streator, and LaRue Morris, LaGrange. Jack Berner, letter winner in 1935, may not be available because of an old injury.

Lindgren Aids Zuppke Zuppke's first assistant again will be Justa M. Lindgren, captain and tackle of the great Illinois team of 1902. Lindgren has coached at Illinois for 32 years, 24 of them as Zup's right hand man. Other assistants will be Wendell Wilson, former end; Jack Beynon, former quarterback, and Charley Monsson, who graduated from the coaching school in 1935.

The schedule: Sept. 26—DePaul at Illinois; Oct. 3—Washington U. at Illinois; Oct. 10—Southern California at Illinois; Oct. 17—Iowa at Iowa City; Oct. 24—Northwestern at Illinois homecoming; Oct. 31—Michigan at Ann Arbor; Nov. 7—No game scheduled; Nov. 14—Ohio State at Illinois; Nov. 21—Chicago at Chicago.

About This And That In Many Sports

Grid Season Opens

One of the most ideal seasons of the year gets under way this afternoon. It is the time of the year for football games, and who is there in this community of ours who does not go in a big way for the pigskin sport? — The high school Tigers, heavy in the line and light in the backfield, and with a will to win, were taking on Groveport as you are reading this column. — The day was perfect, the crowd was good, and enthusiasm was running high — All was well with the football world ***

Fox-Coon Dog Day

The Ross county Conservation League announces its seventh annual fox and coon dog field trial to be held Sunday, Sept. 27. — There will be a wild fox chase. — The location is 10 miles north of Chillicothe on the Clarksville road ***

Barber Handles Irish

Red Barber, ace sports announcer of WLW, will start a new three-times-a-week football series Oct. 1 — He'll be heard on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday from 6:30 to 6:45 o'clock — Barber's talent will be confined to Notre Dame's home games this fall — Barber has served throughout the summer at the microphone describing the Cincinnati baseball games over WSAI and WHIO ***

Just Plain Hokey

Bob Hokey of the Ohio State Journal has the national collegiate football championship almost decided, but the strange part about Mr. Hokey is that he picks Pittsburgh to take the Bucks, at least according to his odds-sheet—Ohio is a 4 to 5 bet, he scribbles — Other odds as offered by the Capital City scrivener are: Ohio over N. Y. U., 8 to 5; Ohio and Northwestern, even; Ohio over Indiana 6 to 5; Ohio and Notre Dame, even; Ohio 2 to 1 over Chicago; Ohio 7 to 5 over Illinois, and Ohio 10 to 9 over Michigan—What do you think? ***

FISH TO STOCK THREE COUNTY CREEKS ON WAY Shipments of fish for restocking three county streams, Walnut, Darby and Deer creeks, will arrive within the next 30 days. No fish have been distributed in this county so far this year.

CHRISSENGER'S WORK PUTS ZARNAS' JOB IN DANGER At the close of the 1935 season, stocky Gus Zarnas, Youngstown, was playing almost up to the standard which won Inwood Smith All-American honors and was counted on as a certain starter when Ohio State opened practice this fall.

Today, Zarnas was in danger of being beaten out of a regular berth by Warren Chrissenger, Springfield junior, who failed to win a moneymen last season. Chrissenger has been one of the biggest surprises of the Bucks' early drills and is in line for the starting place opposite Smith.

The development of Chrissenger, whether he wins a place in the starting lineup or not, will strengthen the Bucks' veteran forward wall and increase an already powerful reserve corps.

Drills in which pass plays were stressed featured yesterday's workouts.

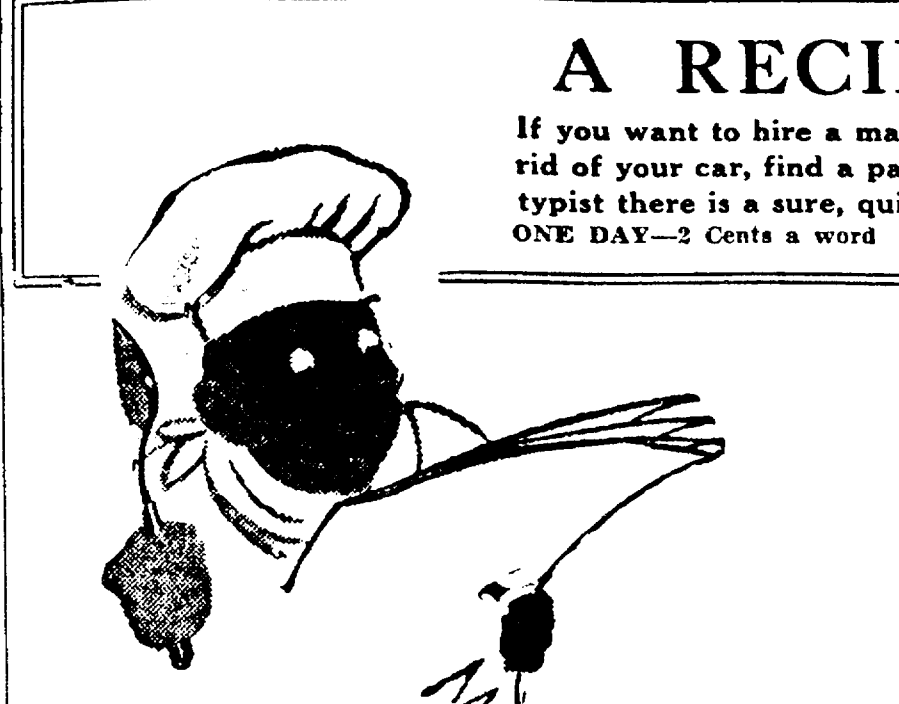

BREWERS SLUG TO WIN ANOTHER FROM INDIANS The heavy hitters of the Milwaukee Brewers went to work on Indianapolis yesterday, chalking up by their efforts the second victory in the playoff for the American Association championship.

The Brewers beat the Indians 10 to 3 as they walloped 11 well-timed safeties off Turner and Tanning, including home runs by Brenzel and Hope and a triple by York. Heving gave up seven hits, one of them a homer.

The Brewers, league leaders at the season's close, are playing Indianapolis for the right to meet the International league champions in the "little world series."

Bob Newhall Returns to W L W Airlines Sept. 28 After Extended Vacation; Hour is 6

NEW MATERIAL IS OBTAINED BY VETERAN SCRIBE

Good Will Court to be on NBC Sunday Evening For First Time

Even from an extended vacation on which he combined business with pleasure, Bob Newhall, radio's ace sports commentator, returns to the air over WLW, September 28, in a new series of programs. He will be heard from 6:30 to 6:45 p. m., EST, daily except Sunday.

Bob spent a good portion of his long leave of absence fishing. Making his headquarters last winter and spring in Sarasota, Fla., where the Newhalls have a home, Bob cruised to the east coast, fishing in the gulf stream and venturing as far as Bimini. While no species of the finny tribe was scored by the old trapper, his chief objectives were sail-fish, marlin and the lordly tarpon of the Mexican gulf. In each he gained his goal with fish to spare.

Realizing all play and no work has the same affect on a sports commentator as all work and no play, Bob did a lot of combining business with pleasure in an effort to gain new material for his forthcoming series of programs.

Newhall spent the month of March visiting the major league training camps in Florida. Later he managed to see all of the American League teams in championship action, as well as the National loop's clubs that engaged the Reds to Crosley field in Cincinnati.

Bob also took in the Louis-Schmeling fight, the battle between Louis and Sharkey and the Lou Ambers-Tony Canzoneri tilt. In addition to those activities he managed to add a score or more of rare books on sports to his famous library of over 300 volumes devoted to athletics.

GOOD WILL COURT

Next Sunday, September 20, marks a milestone in radio history, for on that date the Good Will Court, conducted by A. L. Alexander, will be broadcast for the first time over a nationwide network.

Entirely unrehearsed and with the participants in the program telling their stories to the judges, simply and straightforwardly, without the assistance of scripts, the Good Will Court breaks many radio precedents. Among the most interesting of these is the fact that strict anonymity of all "litigants" will be preserved. The litigant will be identified by a case number and only the conductor of the program, A. L. Alexander, and the judges, by name.

Major Bowes, conductor of the Amateur Hour for the last year and a half, will be present in the studio when the new Good Will Court is introduced to the nationwide radio audience next Sunday. The Court will be broadcast over an NBC red network at 7 p. m. (EST) and over an Interwork at a time and day to be announced later.

Death was due to complications arising from an illness for the last three years.

Mr. English was an excellent school administrator and was highly regarded by his co-workers, the pupils under his care and their parents. He was an outstanding citizen who gained the respect of all by the thorough and efficient manner in which he conducted his chosen work.

Native of Cambridge He was born April 7, 1877 at Cambridge, the son of Phillip and Sarah Andrews English. After receiving his education in the Guernsey county schools, he attended Muskingum College and Miami University. Four years later he was given the principalship at Western school, where he served faithfully, ardently and efficiently until the close of the term in June 1936. His health broke before the end of the school term, but he carried on to the end of the term with the persistence of a man who wanted to finish the work at hand.

All along the coast houses were battered and residents in refuge. At Virginia Beach, in the direct path of the storm, 400 persons, mostly summer vacationists, took refuge in the Hotel Cavalier.

Chief immediate danger at Norfolk and Cape Henry appeared to be from what was estimated by the weather bureau to be a near-record high tide.

Norfolk Inundated Swept up by the hurricane winds, water was three feet deep in several principal streets of Norfolk. Rowboats were pressed into service to ferry pedestrians. Youngsters were charging 25 cents a ride. The tide was estimated at seven to ten feet above normal.

Fear was expressed that buildings at Cape Henry would have to be evacuated because of the high water. A 72-mile an hour wind was reported there at 6 a. m.

Communication with virtually all small Virginia coastal points was lost except for short-wave radio.

YOU SHOULD SEE WHAT I EAT NOW

Well known Ohio citizen says terrible suffering he used to have from indigestion, cramps and gassy stomach has vanished since taking Vendol. Also relieved of constipation and dizziness.

"You just ought to see the hearty meals I eat now since taking Vendol," declared Mr. Louis Straub of 226 Berger St., Columbus, Ohio.

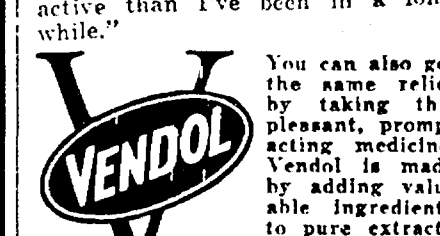

MR. LOUIS STRAUB

"But before I took this great herbal remedy I was always suffering with my stomach in one way or another. Just seemed like every mouthful of food caused indigestion, and cramps would nearly double me up. Gas would bloat me so badly my heart would flutter, and at times I'd have difficulty in breathing. As you might expect, I soon lost all desire for my meals. "To make matters worse, I was constipated all the time and as a result I suffered a lot with sickening headaches and a coated tongue, and there was a bad taste in my mouth. Frequently, tiny, dark spots would seem to dance before my eyes and whenever I'd bend over I'd get so dizzy I could hardly see. My nerves were quivery, my sleep was anything but restful, and the least bit of exertion left me tired and worn out."

"It seemed that Vendol was exactly what I needed and went to the root of my troubles and now I feel like a new man. I have as fine an appetite as anybody could want and I believe I could eat anything without suffering in any way with my stomach. My bowels act regularly every day and the biliousness, dizzy spells and other complaints have vanished. I sleep like a log, and I'm stronger and more active than I've been in a long while."

You can also get the same relief by taking this pleasant, prompt acting medicine. Vendol is made by adding valuable ingredients to pure extracts of
